Easy as Dell: The Dell Windows Vista Upgrade Assistant

With every Express Upgrade to Windows Vista upgrade kit, Dell will also provide an upgrade assistant DVD to assist you in the installation process. Here's how it works:

1. The Dell Windows Vista Upgrade Assistant will first assess your system for compatibility and provide guidance on backing up data.
2. Then, the Upgrade Assistant will automatically install required BIOS, drivers, and application patches included on the DVD. (Excludes applications or devices installed by the user.)
3. If you get stumped, a Dell technician can help you troubleshoot issues 24 x 7 over the phone by calling 1-800-buy-dell.

An Upgrade Primer

Want to know more about how the Windows Vista Express Upgrade Program works? Read on:

1. Select the upgrade: Customers purchasing a new Windows Vista Capable* Dell PC with a qualifying Windows XP operating system during the promotion period (October 26, 2006 - March 15, 2007) will have the opportunity at the time of purchase to elect to participate in the Express Upgrade to Windows Vista promotion. As part of this promotion, you can make your Windows Vista upgrade selection at the time of any qualifying system purchase made during the promotion period.

Remember: To actually receive the upgrade, you'll have to be sure to complete the next step in the process after you receive your PC: Redeem your upgrade.

2. Redeem your upgrade: When you receive your qualifying Dell PC, you must go to <http://web.archive.org/web/20061117090054/http://www.dellvistaupgrade.com/> to redeem your upgrade no later than the deadline of March 31, 2007.
